N. Y. U. UNVEILS BUSTS OF 2 FOR HALL OF FAME

Bronze busts of Susan B. Anthony, crusader for women's rights, and Thomas Paine, pamphleteer of the American Revolutionary period, were unveiled yesterday afternoon in the auditorium of the Gould Memorial Library on New York University's Bronx campus, 181st Street and University Avenue.

The busts will be the seventy-ninth and eightieth to be installed in the university's Hall of Fame.

Among the 500 persons who attended the ceremony was Mrs. Adelaide Johnson, 105 years old, co-worker of Miss Anthony. She was sculptor of the Woman's Monument in the crypt of the Capitol in Washington.

Mrs. Ann Anthony Bacon of San Francisco, a niece, unveiled Brenda Putnam's bronze of Miss Anthony, a gift of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc. Judge Sarah T. Hughes of Dallas, Tex., president of the federation, made the presentation.

The Paine bust, the work of Malvina Hoffman, was unveiled by Edward W. Stitt Jr., city historian of New Rochelle and vice president of the Thomas Paine National Historical Association which donated the sculpture.

Dr. Wesley Frank Craven, Edwards Professor of American History at Princeton University, delivered a tribute to Mr. Paine. The Rev. Dr. David Rhys Williams, minister of the First Unitarian Church in Rochester, N. Y., offered the invocation. The Rev. Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, director of the Hall of Fame, presided.
